SELECTED TALE.

THE MINISTER'S DINNER PARTY.

BY LYDIA JANE PIERSON.

The Reverend Mr. N—— was a man of excellent temper, generous feelings and well cultivated mind, but he was eccentric even to oddity. He was a powerful preacher, and his ministration was blest with the reformation of many of his parish. At the age of thirty-four he became enamored of a beautiful light hearted girl of seventeen, daughter of one of his richest parishioners, and who imagined that to refuse the hand of the minister would be a sin bordering on the unpardonable. Well, the marriage was consumated, and the bride's fat portion paid; and the husband, as husbands in their first love are apt to do, gave in to the humor of his wife, accompanied her to several festive parties, given by his wealthy neighbors in honor of his marriage.

The happy couple were sitting together in their comfortable parlor, the one evening towards spring, the reverend gentleman studying the venerable Bede, and his wife equally intent upon a plate of the latest fashions, when she suddenly looked up with an expression between hope and fear, and thus addressed her companion:

'My dear husband, I have a request to make.

'Well, Nancy, any thing consistent.'

'You do not imagine that I would make an inconsistent request, surely?'

'No—not one that you considered inconsistent. But come, what is it?'

'Why, my dear,' and her voice trembled a little, 'we have been to several parties among the neighboring gentry, and now I think that to maintain our position in society, we should make a party too.'

The minister looked blank.

'What sort of a party Nancy,' said he.

'Why,' she replied, 'such a party as those we have attended. We must make an elegant dinner and have dancing after it.'

'Dancing! in a minister's house,' ejaculated Mr. N——.

'Why, yes, certainly,' replied his wife, coaxingly. 'You will not dance, the party will be mine; and then we have been to similar parties all winter.'

'True, true,' he murmured with a perplexed air, and sat silent for some time, as if considering. At length he spoke. 'Yes, Nancy you may make a party, give a dinner, and if the guests desire it, you may dance.'

'Thank you love,' she cried, putting her arms around his neck.

'But I have some stipulations to make about it,' he said. 'I must select and invite the guests, and you must allow me to place some of my favorite dishes on the table.'

'All as you please, love,' she answered, delightedly, 'but when shall it be.'

'Next Wednesday, if you please.'

'But our furniture and window draperies are very old fashioned. Is it not time we had new?

'I should hardly think it necessary to refurnish our rooms Nancy. All our furniture is excellent of its kind.'

'But our smooth carpets, white draperies & cane chairs have such a cold look; do consent to have the rooms new fitted, we can move these things to the unfurnished chambers.'

'And of what use will they be in those rooms which we never occupy? Besides it is near spring, and to fit up now for winter, is superfluous.'

'Well, I would not care,' she persisted, 'only people will call us parsimonious and ungenteel.'

'Oh, if that is all,' said he gaily, 'I will promise to expend a thousand dollars on the evening of the party, not in furniture, but in a manner which will be far more grateful to our guests, and profitable to ourselves, and which shall exonerate us from all imputations of parsimony; and you may expend in dress, eatables, and desert, just what sum you please, and do not forget the wines.' And so the colloquy ended. He resumed his studies and she gave up her mind to the consideration of the dress which would be most becoming, and the viands that would be most expensive. The next day she went busily about her preparations, wondering all the time how her husband would spend his thousand dollars, but as she had discovered something of the eccentricity of his character, she doubted not that he meant to give an agreeable surprise; and her curiosity grew so great that she could hardly sleep during the interval

At length the momentous day arrived. The arrangements were all complete. Mrs. N—— retired to perform the all important business of arraying her fine person in fine attire. She lingered long at the toilette, relying on the fashionable people, and when the hour struck, she left her chamber arrayed, like Judith of old, gloriously, to allure the eyes of all who should look, notwithstanding the uncomfortable pinching of her shoes and corsets. Her husband met her in the hall.

'Our guests have all arrived,' said he, and opened the door of the receiving room. Wonderful! wonderful! What strange assembly—There were congregated the cripple, the maimed and the blind; the palsied, the extreme aged and a group of children, from the almshouse who regarded the fine lady, some with open mouths, others with both hands in their hair, while others peeped from behind furniture, to the covert of which they had retreated from her dazzling presence. She was petrified with astonishment, then a dash of displeasure crossed her face, till having ran her eyes over the grotesque assembly, she met the comically grave expression of her husbands countenance when she burst into a violent fit of laughter, during the paroxysm of which, the bursting of her corset laces could be distinctly heard by the whole assembly.

'Nancy,' at length said her husband sternly. She uppressed her mirth, and stammered an excuse, and added:—'You will forgive me, and believe yourself quite welcome.'

'That is well done,' whispered Mr. N——; 'then my friends,' said he, 'as my wife is not acquainted with you, I will make a few presentations.' Then leading her towards an emaciated creature, whose distorted limbs were unable to support his body, he said:—this gentlemen, Nancy, is the Reverend Mr. Niles, who, in his youth, travelled and endured much in the cause of our common Master. A violant rheumatism, induced by colds, contracted among the new settlements of the west, where he was employed in preaching the Gospel to the poor, has reduced him to his present condition. This lady his wife, has piously sustained him, and by her own labor procured a maintenance for herself and him. But she is old and feeble now as you see.'

Then turning to a group with silver locks and threadbare coats; he continued: 'These are soldiers of the revolution; they were all sons of rich men; they went out in their young strength to defend their oppressed country. They endured hardships, toils and sufferings, such as we hardly deem it possible for men to endure and live; they returned home at the close of the war maimed in their limbs, and with broken constitutions; to find their patrimonies destroyed by fire or the chances of war, or their property otherwise wrested and filched from them: these venerable ladies are the wives of these patriots and widows of others who have gone to their reward. They could tell you tales that would thrill your heart and make it better; this is the celebrated and learned Dr. B——, who saved hundreds of lives during the spotted epidemic.—But his great success roused the animosity of his medical brethren, who succeeded in ruining his practice, and when blindness came upon him he was forgotten by those whom he had delivered from death. This lovely creature is the only child, and she is motherless. She leads him daily by the hand, and earns the bread she sets before him. Yet her learning and accomplishments are wonderful, and she is the author of those exquisite poems which appear occasionally in the ——Magazine. These children were orphaned in infancy by the Asiatic Cholera; and their sad hearts have seldom been cheered by a smile, or their palates regaled by delicious food—now dry your eyes love, and lead on to the dining room.'

She obeyed, and notwithstanding her emotions, the thumping of coarse shoes; and the rattling of sticks, crutches and wooden legs behind her, well nigh threw her into another indecorous laugh.

To divert her attention, she glanced over the table. There stood the dishes for which her husband had stipulated, in the shape of two monstrous, homely looking meat pies, & two enormous plates of baked meats and vegetables; like mountains among the delicate viands that she had prepared for the refined company which she had expected. She took her place and prepared to do the table honors; but her husband after a short thanksgiving to the Bountiful God: addressed the company with 'Now my brethren. help yourselves and one another to whatever you deem preferable, I will wait upon the children.'

A hearty and jovial meal was made, the minister setting the example, and as the hearts of the old soldiers were warmed with wine, they became garrulors, and each recounted some wonderful or thrilling event of the revolutionary war; and the old ladies told their tales of privations and suffering, and interwove with them the histories of fathers, brothers or lovers who died for liberty.

Mrs N. was sobbing convulsively, when her husband came round touching her shoulder, whispered.

"My love shall we have dancing!" That word, with its ludicrous associations fairly threw her into hysterics, and she laughed and wept at once.

When she become quiescent, Mr N. thus addressed the company.

'I fear, my friends, that you will think my wife a frivolous, inconsistent creature, and I must therefore apologise for her We were married only last fall, and have attended several gay parties which our rich neighbors gave in honor of our nuptials, and my wife though it would be genteel to give a dinner in return. I consented on conditions one of which was that I should invite the guests. So, being a professed minister of him who was meek and lowly in heart, I followed to the letter his command, But when thou makes a feast, call the poor the maimed the lame, the blind, &c, you all recollect the passage Mrs N., not knowing who her guests were to be, is highly delighted with the ruse I have played and I do not believe there has been so noble and honorable a company assembled this winter. My wife desired new furniture, lest we should be deemed parsimonious, and I pledged myself to expend our thousand dollars in a manner more pleasing to our guests and which should obviate any such imputation.'

Then addressing the children, he said 'You will each be removed to-morrow to excellent places and if you continue to be industrious and perfectly honest, in word and deed you will become respectable members of society. To you, Dr. R——, under God, I owe my life. I did not know of your locality, neither had I heard of your misfortunes, untill a few days since. I can never repay the debt I owe you, the house adjoining mine I will see that you never want again. To you, patriot fathers and nursing mothers of our country, I present the thousand dollars.

'It is just one hundred dollars to each soldier and soldier's widow It is a mere trifle No thanks, my friend's You Mr Niles are my father in the Lord. Under your preaching I first become convinced of sin and it was your voice that brought me the words of salvation, you will remain in my house, I have a room prepared for you & a pious servant to attend you. It is time that you were at peace and your excellent lady relieved of her heavy burden."

The crippled preacher fell prostrate to the carpet, and poured forth such thanksgiving and prayer, as found way to the heart of Mrs N——, who ultimately became a meek and pious woman, a fit helpmate for a devoted gospel minister.

REMEMBER THE ORPHAN.

Pleasant gathering, happy meeting,
Doth Thanksgiving day afford,
Parents' blessings children's greetings,
Circling round the festive board;
Summer ended,
Joys are blended,
By sweet memory's silver cord.

Pets and darlings gather round,
Grandpa smiles on one and all;
Grandma's tender cares abound,
Plenty's choicest blessing fall;
Songs are heard,
Some joyous word,
Childhood's sunny hours recall

Alas as to happy homes
Our joyous feet are tending,
Theres many a little orphan comes
Its weary pathway wending;
No kind hand,
No household band,
No mother dear in love attending.

God bless ye! little orphan dear:
And furnish homes and friends indeed;
May two dear patrons now be near
Ministering angels to thy need.
Leading on,
To pastures green,
Little limbs whose footsteps bleed

THE PRINTER.—Dow, Jr. in one of his sermons, discourses as follows—

'The printer's is a very disagreeable situation: his money is scattered every where, and he hardly knows where to look for it. His paper, his ink, his type, his journeymen's labor, his living must be punctually paid for.—You Mr.——, and Mr.——, and a hundred others I could name, have taken his paper, and you and your children and your neighbor have been instructed by it. If you miss one paper you think very hard of the printer—you would rather go without dinner. Have you complied with the terms of your subscription? Have you taken as much pains to furnish the printer with his money as he has taken to furnish you with his paper? Have you paid him for his hand work, his head work? If you have not: go and pay him off.'

A country preacher holding forth on a very sultry day; in a small hall, was much annoyed by those who kept dropping in after the service had commenced; and invariably closed the door after them. He bore the vexation with Job-like practice but at length being exhausted by the extreme oppressive heat; he vociferated to an offender—Friend, do for goodness' sake: let the door be open. I do believe if I was preaching in a bottle you would put the cork in.

WASHINGTON CITY D. C

SATURDAY, JANUARY 19, ::::::::::::::::1850.

NEW PAPERS.

Two new papers reached us last week viz. The 'WESTON REPORTER,' and 'Jeffersonville DEMOCRAT.' The Reporter is published in Weston Platte county, Missouri, 'By Witcher & Finch. The Weston Reporter, is published every Saturday morning by William A. Witcher, and Samuel J. Finch.

Terms.—$2 00 per year in advance, $3 00 if not paid in within the first six months.

Any person who will obtain six subscribers and forward the amount of subscription, $12 in advance shall be entitled to the seventh copy gratis."

This is a large and neatly printed sheet, and has only reached its fourth number. Like all the Missouri papers it is edited with ability, erudition, and a fearless independence.

The Editors appear to be men of talent, & general information, and deserve a liberal patronage for the benefit of their country. Nothing escapes their vigilence, whilst they observe an even courtesy to all parties. They are Whigs in politics.

"The Democrat is published in Jeffersonville Tazewell, C. H. Va. by

'H. F. PEERY,
Editor and Proprietor.
E. RIDER, Publisher.

Terms.—The Democrat is published weekly at $2 50 per annum, or $2 if paid in advance. No subscription will be received for a less period than six months.

No subscription will be discontinued until all arrearages shall have been paid, except at the discretion of the Proprietors."

This is another paper of good size, and has reached its 2d volume. It is a highly intelligent paper, containing a great variety of news foreign and domestic—amusing tales, anecdotes and spicy remarks—with reports of the General & State Governments. The paper is Democratic, full of intelligence, and we shall be happy to exchange with Mr. Peery.

There is one thing however, we are sorry to except, viz. that the Editor suffers himself to be imposed upon by his Correspondents; this is too often the case with Editors, and thereby they incur censure unwittingly—we allude to the following:

"WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 8, '49.

'So far as I am concerned, I think they are doing less harm in VOTING. From day to day, than they would with a Speaker from either party. The Whigs and Abolitionists have a controlling majority, and their legislation will not be very gratifying or beneficial to the South. So, for what I care, they may continue their ineffectual ballotings until August."

* * * *

A good man WOULD care for his country.

"The President held a Levee last night, and you may believe me when I say, he was about the meanest looking man in the White House. The same candor, however, compels me to say that his daughter, Mrs. Col. Bliss, was by far, the sweetest looking lady present. Old Ewing was there also, 'the observed of all observers,' and I assure you he is a BIG and FAT specimen of a 'Butcher,' just such a butcher as Jack Falstaff should have had. Gen. Cass is looking better than I ever saw him. The striking contrast between him and Taylor is altogether sufficient to make any respectable whig blush."

How the poor creature is not aware that in using this sort of language, he only degrades himself, and proves him to be not only no gentleman but a low ill-natured clown; while those he traduces are just as they were before.

But the consequence does not stop here.—His remark upon the President is an insult to his country, which elected General Taylor to the Presidency: So far from being "mean looking," he has a fine open countenance, stampt with what this man seems to be a stranger to—that is, honesty and good sense: He has a steady serenity in mien, and movements, as far removed from "mean looking" as the Heavens are from the earth: That this man should claim the superlative capacity of judging, over that of the people of the United States generally, and those who know the President in particular; he thereby only exposes his ignorance and his arrogance. We should say HE was the meanest man [no matter for his looks] at the Levee.

His remarks on Mrs. Bliss is still more unpardonable:—"By far the sweetest looking," &c. He ought to have been kicked for his impudence. Had Mrs B. been a single lady it was going too far for him. As for Mr. Ewing he is big enough to defend himself.

But his praise of Gen. Cass is the most sickening of all. If he thinks to wheeddle Gen. Cass with his low slang, he will find himself mistaken.

CHURCH & STATE, PICAYUNE.

No Free Soil about it, they are the real bonafide Pilgrim Presbyterians. They seem to have taken Natchez, as well as the surrounding country; their Synods, and meetings were held there many days, and crowded the city to overflowing.

The Methodists had been holding a large meeting at Natchez likewise—this appeared to have annoyed them much. The former calls the latter "Black coats," as it were sneeringly, not by their proper name; but they were breaking up as the Church and State party were arriving. The correspondent in his letter, [not finished in our last] speaking of This Synod says:

"The territory is immense represented by this reverend body—including the presbyteries of Mississippi, Clinton, Tombecbee, Louisiana, and Brazos—extending from Tishemingo county, Miss. on the Tennessee river, to the Rio Grande, and from the Balize to Santa Fe, in New Mexico."

This is an extensive domain to be occupied by such insiduous foes—enough to dismay the stoutest heart, and should call up the watchfulness which the alternative of life and death demand. The people have done this themselves! they alone can undo it, or let them take the consequence.

Hear this Pilgrim man, what joy it affords him to record the disgrace of New Orleans, once so famed for its magnanimity, and exemplary charity toward the stranger and the afflicted.

"From your city I see the Rev. Messrs. Beadle, Stanton, Beattie, Harned, North and Wayne. the presbytery of Louisiana held a meeting this morning when they received into their body the following ministers from Clinton presbytery, viz. Rev. N G. North and A. B Lawrence—the former of New Orleans, the latter Liberty, Amite county Miss,—the Rev, Benj. Wayne of your city applied for ordination and a subject was designed him for an ordination sermon next spring, when the presbytery will meet at the Plains' Church, near Port Hudson. Subject: Romans, 6:16.

'The synod will perhaps, sit until Monday next, and you may hear from me again during its sessions. A place has been fixed for the next meeting, viz: Vicksburg, on the 4th Wednesday in November, 1850, at 7 o'clock, p. m. Directors have been chosen by the synod for that flourishing institution, Oakland College. There are present Rev. E Humphrey, D. D. of Louisville Ky: Rev. Jeptha Harrison, of Memphis, and Rev. S. Woodbridge of New York.

Our people are extending their hospitalities with a profuse hand: Yours, TYPO."

The following is the celebration of the pilgrims, we have only room for a few extracts:

'The New England Society.—The New England Society met at the St Charles Hotel yesterday afternoon for the election of officers to serve during the ensuing year.

At half-past 6 the members of the society & their invited guests proceeded to the ladies ordinary of the hotel and set down to a table that was literally hidden beneath the choicest delicacies and culinary treasures of the season The various wines vinds and fruits were chosen with all the taste and liberality of Messrs Mudge & Wilson.' * * *

Many a guant tract pedlar feasted that day. No wonder they long for the Valley with all its good things, * * * "then came the hour of convivality and good feeling." Hearing such good news from the river churches; it was quite cheering. One of them was significant enough viz:

"The Day be Celebrate.—May it ever be cherished and remembered by the Son of New England; and the Rock of Plymouth be emblematical of the embrace of the principles promulgated by our Pilgrim Fathers.'

'New England.—The Land of the Pilgrims, and our home.'

Why do they not stay at their home?

These three letters [signed Typo] with a 4th, we have not room for, and the celebration and the remarks on the Sabbath, were all published in the same number of the Picayune, simultaneously with the meeting of Congress.

Wonder who made him, Mr McCaleb, U. States Judge? He had better look out

NEW MEMBERS of the 31st CONGRESS.

Hon. Walter Underhill.

Mr. U. is a new member from the City of New York and comes in the room of Hon. W. B. Maclay. He is in the prime of life, tall and stout, with a highly pleasing appearance; adorned with every gift of nature, and all the elegance of manner that education or society can impart. He is about six feet in height, with a portly figure denoting strength and vigour, to which he unites the expression of an elevated mind. His face is fair, round, [rather so] and full, with a rich carnation shade, with features of unrivalled symmetry. His fine expansive forehead denotes capacity and equinimity of temper; with a mild intelligent brow, where frown nor care ever comes, but peace and kindness rests. His soft melting eye of azure hue, teems with every expression of goodness, which human nature can partake. At once adimated with a smile of cheerful innocence, and a modesty of mien, the most winning in nature, while his countenance, benign and discerning, bespeaks the ready command of intellect and general knowledge. In his manners Mr Underhill is frank and gentlemanly. He is attached to the society of Friends, and said to be one of the first merchants in the City of New York.

He and his lady boards with Mrs. Carter, on Capitol Hill, where there were several new members of Congress, but they had either walked out, or were engaged. But we shall see them.

LADIES.

Mrs. Underhill.

Mrs. U. is the lady of the Hon W. Underhill, above named. She is perhaps much younger than her husband, with a tall slender figure of singular beauty: Her face is oval, of the middling shade, with thin delicate features of inimitable symmetry. Her hair is jet black, fine and glossy, while it shades a deep smooth forehead, tranquil as the unruffled lake, and denotes a quiet and benevolent mind. Her modest brow betokens an even temper blended with the sweetest innocence, and humility itself. Her eye is a dark hazel, commonly called black, it is keen and liquid, with a softened glow of humanity indicating tenderness of heart. Her countenance is staid, chaste, and contemplative, and denotes erudition and strong mental powers. In her manners Mrs Underhill is highly accomplished and lady. like.

Mrs. Howe.

Mrs. H. is the lady of Hon John W. Howe a new member of Congress from Pennsylvania. She is in the prime of life, with a tall genteel rounding figure of becoming size, and has quite an imposing carriage. Her face is oval, rather fair, with full pleasing features, and pretty dimpled cheeks;—her hair, likewise black, drops over her face and neck, and makes her interesting. Her forehead—deep and square, is bland, and expressive, and denotes an open ingenuous heart. Her mild open brow placid as the sleeping babe, bespeaks the joyous feelings of the blessed. But for her soft subduing eye we have no name. So meek, so modest, and yet the sunny smile, they shed over her fine features would captivate an anchorite: Her countenance—though serene and composed, discloses a heart flowing with the milk of human kindness.

'Miss, will you take my arm!'

'La, yes and you, too.'

'Can't spare but the arm, Miss,' hastily replied the old bachelor.

'Then, said Miss, I can't take it, as my motto is to 'go the whole hog or none,'

Tele-e-graphic—Well, wife, I don't see for my part how they send letters on them are wires without tearing em all to bits

Law me they don't send the paper, they just send the writin in a fluid state you fool!

Oh that's the way, hey!

CONUNDRUMS.

What word of four syllables can be spelled with three figures and two letters? Extenuate—X 10 U 8.

Why are four roods like a decayed tooth? Because they are an acre(acher.)

Why are seven days like hot weather? Because they make one week [weak]

Why is a lady in love, like a railroad engine? Because she has a tender attachment.

Why is a soldier like a vine Because he is listed and trained, has ten drills and shoots.

What kind of keys were most in demand about Thankgiving times? Why tur-keys of course.

Why is a sawyer like a lawyer. Because which ever way he goes down must come the dust.

A cute Boy.—Sunny, where does the creek run?'

'It runs here I guess as fast as any where'

'I don't mean that, what place does it run to?'

'Well it does!' says the youth putting his finger to his nose—as much as to say, 'you can't come it!'

Never tread on the tail of a cat or tell a woman she is not handsome, unless you are fond of music.

A tailor presented his account to a gentleman for settlement. 'I'll look over your bill,' said the gentleman. 'Very well, said the tailor, 'but pray don't overlook it.'

SUSPIERA.

Take them, O Death and bear away
Whatever thou canst call thine own!
Thine image, stamped upon this clay
Doth give thee but that alone!

Take them O Grave! and let them lie
Folded upon thy narrow shelves
As garments by the soul laid by,
And precious only to ourselves!

Take them, O great Eternity!
Our little life is but a gust,
That bends the branches of thy tree,
And trails its blossom in the dust!

H. W. LONGFELLOW

An old lady put on her specs and taking up the village newspaper, the first thing which caught her eyes was the heading of a political artical which read—'Illinois moving"

'Bless my soul", said the good old dame 'I hope it won't move on my son William's farm on the border of Indiana.

Market Scene—A would be fashionable lady, dressed in all the colors goes to market, followed by a negro boy with a basket. Espying a goose upon a Jersey man's stall' but not taking particular notice of it she goes up to the farmer and the following dialogue ensues:

Lady—— What's the price of those turkey?

Jersey man— Those turkey is a goose Ma'am.

Lady— Well, what's the price of it?

Jersey man —Seventy five cents.

Lady—That's too much; I'll give seven levies, (87½ cents)

Jersey man— Well, you may take it for that. Its the last I've got, and I won't haggle about the price.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

A MAMMOTH PAPER.
DEVOTED TO MORALITY, PURE LITERATURE, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC NEWS, AGRICULTURE, SCIENCE, ART AND AMUSEMENT.

This paper contains from one-fourth to one half more than the generality of two Dollar city weeklies.

The Proprietors of the SATURDAY EVENING POST return their sincere thanks to their friends and the public for the patronage extended to them since the enlargement of their paper, and respectfully solicit a continuance of the same. The belief expressed in their last Prospectus, that the POST is destined to take its stand at the very head of the weekly press, is fast becoming realized. The reason of this is in a great degree, to be found in the stand the POST has always taken against the immoral literature of the day. The public have felt, in the language of the North American and United States Gazette, of this city, that "The Post has done much towards correcting the taste of the newspaper reading public."

Ulcers, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, pimples on the face, &c., together with nervous cases of consumption liver complaints spleen affections, &c This, we are aware, must appear incredible, but we have letters from physicians and our agents from all parts of the United States informing us of extraordinary cures. R Van Buskirk, Esq., one of the most respectable druggists in Newark, New Jersey, informs us that he can refer to more than one hundred and fifty cases in that place alone. There are thousands of cases in the city of N. York which we will refer to with pleasure, and to men of character well known.

OPINIONS OF PHYSICIANS.

Dr. Townsend is almost daily receiving orders from physicians in different parts of the Union.

This is to certify that we, the undersigned physicians of the city of Albany, have eimnerous cases prescribed Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla and beleive to be one of the most valuable preparations of Sarparilla in the Market.

P H. Puling, M. D; R. B. Briggs, M. D.
P E. Elmendorf, M. D.
Albany, April 1, 1845.

The following is from one of the most respectable physicians on Long Island:

GREENPORT July 19, 1846.

DR. TOWNSENDS—Dear Sir—it is with satisfaction that I have recently witnessed, in several cases the most beneficial results from your extract of Sarsaparilla. Be engaged in the practice of medicine, I have prescribed it in several cases, and never without benefit. In the removal of diseases arising from a derranged state of the digestive organs, jaundice, &c if far exceeds any thing of the kind ever offered to the public. You will please send me two dozen, &c.

Respectfully yours,
C. S. PRESTON, M D.

UNITED STATES OFFICER.

Capt G W Mclean, Member of the Legislature, and late of the U. S. Navy; has kindly sent us the following certificate. It tells its own story.

RAHWAY Jan. 25 1847.

A year since I was taken with the influenza and my whole system left in a debilitated state. I was induced to try Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla.

If after taking two or three bottles, I was very much relieved, and attributed it entirely to the said Sarsaparilla. I have continued taking it, and that I improve every day. I believe it saved my life, and would not be without it under any consideration.

G W. McLEAN.

SCROFULA CURED.

This certificate conclusively proves that this Sarsaparilla has perfect control over the most obstinate diseases of the blood. Three persons cured in one house is unprecedented,

THREE CHILDREN.

DR. TOWNSEND—Dear Sir, I have the pleasure to inform you that three of my children have been cured of the scrofula by the use of your excellent medecine. They were afflicted very severely with bad sores; having taken only four bottles; it took them away, for which I feel myself under deep obligation.

yours respectfully,

PROSPECTUS
THE FRIEND OF YOUTH
A Monthly Newspaper.

Mrs. MARGARET L. BAILEY, EDITOR,

The Friend of Youth will be issued on the first of every month in quarto form, eight pages on fine paper, in neat new type, and with tasteful embellishments.

Our object will be to make the paper an attractive companion for youth. While we please, we shall also aim to form their tastes. In addition to agreeable Stories, Lessons on Natural History, Descriptions of Natural Scenery, Sketches of Travel, and Notices of New Books for children, we shall converse, with them, in language adapted to their comprehension, about the important events of the present era. We know this is not usually done in such publications, but we think we do not mistake the taste or capacity of young people, when we suppose them to feel some interest in the world they live in, beyond the nursery, the school-room, and the play-ground. It shall also be our care to interest them on all great subjects connected with the well being of mankind. Freedom, Peace, and Temperance, shall receive our warm with the suffering, we hope to awaken in them a generous abhorrence of all wrong, and and an earnest love and reverence for all that is just and pure, and while thus inculcating the lessons of love to man, we can not forget the supreme obligations due to the great Father and Benefactor of all.

We hope to succeed in adapting our paper to all ages of youth, so that while the elder brothers and sisters have a due share of our attention, the little ones shall not be forgotton. They are our special favorites, and shall be cared for accordingly.

To secure variety of entertainment, we have engaged as regular contributors to our columns, several well-known and distinguished writers, peculiarly qualified to minister to the wants of Youth. Among them, we are at liberty to name—T. S. Arthur and Emma D. E. N. Southworth. In short we hope to make the paper just such a "Friend" as young people will be glad to see, and sorry to part with.

As this Prospectus may reach many of the former friends and patrons of the 'Youth's Monthly Visiter,' a paper which we established and edited for nearly three years at Cincinnati, we cannot forbear expressing the great pleasure it will give us to renew our former intercourse with them. The little children who then received the 'Visitor' as a welcome guest, are now almost grown up men and women. But they will perhaps find some little brother or sister or cousin to whom they may introduce us as an old friend.

The first number will be issued on the first of November.

The terms will be—fifty cents a year for a single copy, five copies for $2, or every person forwarding us four names, with two dollars, shall be entitled to one copy gratis.

It is desirable that the names of subscribers be sent in with as little delay as possible. All communications must be addressed to—

THE GLOBE,

Congressional, Agricultural, and Literary Newspaper.

The Editors of the Congressional Globe propose a new publication. To deserve the patronage which Congress has accorded to their reports of its debates, in receiving and making the Globe the official register, they intend to add promptitude to whatever merit has hitherto recommended the work. They will publish a Daily Globe, to record the proceedings and debates as they occur, and a Congressional Globe periodically as heretofore, embodying the reports of Congress separate from the miscellaneous matter which will accompany them in the daily print. To fill the sheet of the daily newspaper, it is designed to gather the news from all quarters, and complete the contents by drawing from every source what ever may be of most interest among literary novelties, and of greatest utility in science, art, or agriculture. For material the leading journals and periodicals of France and Great Britain, treating of such subjects will be consulted and it is hoped, advantageously used. Original essays, especially on topics connected with agriculture, wil be obtained from the most enlightened and practical men of our country.

The Globe as a newspaper, and as a vehicle of information and amusement, in other respects will be under the charge of Francis P. Blair and James C. Pickett. The Congressional department and business concerns of the paper will be under the management of John C. Rives. The public are familiar with Blair and Rives as connected with the press. In introducing Mr Pickett as one of the concern they will be allowed to say a few words of him. He is a gentleman favorably known to the Government, for the talent and judgment which distinguished his diplomatic service while connected with the mission to Mexico, and more recently when Charge d'Affaires to Peru. From him mainly the Globe will derive the selections and translations from the foreign continental journals and periodicals, the comments on them and the other literary articles which will be found among its chief attractions. F. P. Blair will give his attention principally to the English periodicals.

The Globe will be published daily during the session of Congress and weekly the balance of the year and will undergo distribution in the form of a Weekly Globe, a Congressional Globe and Appendix.

The Weekly Globe will contain agricultural and miscellaneous articles.

The Congressional Globe will embody as it has done for the last sixteen years. Congressional proceedings and debates exclusively:

The Appendix will embrace the revised speeches separately and the messages of the President of the United States and the reports of the Heads of the Executive Departments.

The Congressional Globe and appendix will be published as fast as the proceedings of Congress will make a number Subscribers may expect one number of each a week during the first four weeks of a session and two or three numbers of each a week, afterwards, until the end of the session.

Complete indexes to the Congressional Globe and appendix, will besent to subscribers soon after Congress adjourns.

TERMS.

For one copy of the Daily Globe daily during the session of Congress, and weekly during the recess, a year, $5 00

For one copy of the Weekly Globe one year, 2 00

For one copy of the Congressional Globe during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00

For one copy of the Appendix during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00

For six copies of either the Congressional Globe or the appendix, or part of both, 3 00

The subscription for the Congressional Globe or the Appendix after the 10th of January will be $1 50. The original price of one dollar does not pay the expense of the publications in consequence of the great increase of matter published

A NEW PAPER MAMMOTH SIZE

Reduced price, Increased Beauty,

AND AUGMENTED INTEREST!!

The undersigned having purchased the disputed claim on the old Saturday Courier, and being determined not to be surpassed in the competition among the press For popularity beauty and excellence, will now combine the unrivaled and unapproachable material of the old paper, with the renewed energy enterprise novelty and spirit of a new one and will issue, on the 11th day of March, 1848 in the city of Philadelphia the first number of a new weekly Newspaper, of the very first and largest class, entitled

M'MAKIN'S MODEL, AMERICAN COURIER

Published and edited by ANDREW M'MAKIN

Now editor of the Saturday Courier,

Assisted by a gentleman, universally acknowledged as one of the most talented and popular writers of the age.

The Farmers Department, of the Courier will be edited. It is expected, by the most distinguished Agriculturist in the united States whose name will be announced as soon as the pending negotiations are contempleted.

THE AMERICAN COURIER

Will contain the amount of eight more columns of matter than does the "Saturday Courier," and it will be conducted strictly on the CASH PRINCIPEL, will, with all its Artistic and literary improvements, be offered at a much reduced price to "Clubs,"

The editor of the american courier feels confident that not a pledge will be required of time to the character of the new paper, other than that it will be a family newspaper, neueral in politics and religion; chaste in morality and moderate but elevated in tone and sentiment. His long connection with the "Saturday courier,"—which, under at least his co editorship, reached the largest similar circulation in the world,—will be ample pledge that every intelligent and respectable family in the land may safely confide in his taste, judgment and energy, with the aid of comparatively unlimited capital, to cater for their mental appetite

The contents of the American Courier.

Among the standard features of the american courier, will be—a new series of 'Washington Legends,' by George Lippard, esq. The 'portrait Gallery' of poets and their poetry—each Biography illustrated, Original domestic tales, by themost distinguished writers of the day. Original essays, sketches, poems, and letters on useful and important subjects, engraved views of persons, scenes and things of interest Select tales from the best english and american authors. The "Modern Spectator, in wich it will be designed to

"eye nature's walk, shoot Folly as it flies and catch the manners living as they rise
Together with every useful novelty that ingenuity, skill and talent can advise.

THE FARMERS DEPARTMENT will immediately take and maintain an originality and value not approachable by any family journal in the land the editor having engaged several writers of known and acknowledged ability to furnish practical articles on model farming.

The markets, news and gossip of the day will be objects of special care in detail, and nothing will be left undone by mind or money.

TO THE FRIENDS OF "THE PLOUGH, LOOM, AND ANVIL."

POPULAR as this journal is, and so far successful beyond any heretofore established, its income is yet something short of paying its own expenses, leaving the editors to live on air or hope, neither of which is very substantial deit. Now, as we believe that we have not a friend who would willingly see the man want bread who has been more than thirty years teaching others how to make it, we at once frankly solicit our present patrons to use their influence to average one more subscriber each, and then "the Plough, the Loom, and the Anvil," and those who are working at it, will be doing what is commonly called a safe bussiness, and not until then. We are truly sorry to be under the necesity of making this appeal, for, could we afford it, we would rejoice, as on past occasions. to show that we would most willingly work as hard, gratuitously for the great industrial interests of the country, as we are now doing in the hope of at least a scanty support.

P. S. We shall not fail to note the favor if any kind brother Editor should give this a place in his paper to help along one of the oldest of the fraternity.
